With special requirements and large areas to cover, runway marking machines need to be extremely efficient and well equipped in order to keep the runway closures and downtime to a minimum.

Borum provides a wide range of advanced airport self-propelled line marking machines that can be tailored to the customers' requirements and needs.

In accordance with the line width you require, a wide retainer and up to 5 paint spray guns and 5 glass bean guns can be mounted. This assures that the application is performed in a single pass and can be up to 125 cm depending on line thickness, work conditions, and application speed.

Borum cold paint application machines can also be equipped with more material tanks (and separate airless pumps) so that multi-color marking can be carried out simultaneously.
